Can' t delete game center account mac

So I'm trying to remove iCloud from a friend's Internet accounts section of system preferences (Mac OS X 10.10.3) and when I try to do it, I get this message: has 3 currently: An iCloud account (main) a Facebook account and an iCloud inactive account. I can click on Facebook without incident. But both iCloud accounts give me the error you see above. I also can't click on the iCloud preferences pane without receiving a similar message. Any ideas on how do I delete iCloud accounts without going through System Preferences? Thanks in advance! October 16, 2015 Update: If you are running OS X 10.11 (The Captain), you will need to disable the System Integrity Protection functionality if you want to hide or remove Game Center. One of the first things I noticed when looking around OS X 10.10 (Yosemite) was the Game Center icon in the Applications folder. Game Center has been on Mac OS X since 10.8 (Mountain Lion), but the icon has recently changed to match the bubble iOS icon: I never use Game Center on iOS and am always annoyed with spammy friends requests. I've turned off requests from friends in the Game Center several times, but it always seems to turn it back on. Once I saw Game Center in Yosemite, I immediately tried dragging the icon to the Trash. No luck: It took a couple of minutes, but I figured out how to remove it. Here's how to remove Game Center: Warning! Don't do this unless you are comfortable with the command line and have a recent backup of your hard drive. If you don't know what sudo means, then please don't continue. A simple error with sudo rm could cause major problems. – Open Terminal – Navigate to the Applications folder – Enter the following: Game Center is one of the great features of iOS (iPad, iPhone, iPod) or OS X. However, many users find Game Center notifications, prompts and annoying greetings. When you open Game Center, you can sign in with the Apple ID. It seems that once signed into Game Center, there's no way to completely disable it. However, you can disable your Game Center account. You have some options: The first option is to deactivate your Game Center account. This way, you can delete all your account information. To do this, start Game Center, tap > account: > See account. Uncheck the public profile. In tap the verified email and select Delete email from your account. You may also want to change your username to something else. After that, sign out of Game Center by tapping me > account: > sign out. The option described above will remove the public profile and email addresses. But when they launch a a Game Center will still appear asking you to sign in. You can disable Game Center notifications. To do this, tap Settings and select Notifications. Find Game Center and save the Notification Center for Game Center. (related: iPod, iPad and iPhone notifications: What you need to know) The two options described above will not remove the pop sign up when you launch a game. Every time you open a game, game center will ask you to sign in. To get rid of this, first sign out of your Game Center as described above. Start a game, and when the Game Center welcome popup pop-up appears, tap Cancel. Perform this step three times the meaning of launching a game and tapping cancel once the Welcome Game Center displays. After 3 times, a new pop-up window will pop up asking if you want to disable Game Center, then simply tap disable. You won't see pop-ups or other notifications now. Note 1: You can also turn off multiplayer games and add friends to game center turn on restrictions. To do this, just > constraints > general. (related: How to configure parental controls) Note 2: Game Center is part of the iOS software and therefore cannot be removed. You can find this on one of your Home screens. It can be in a folder labeled Utilities. 2 Scroll down and tap Game Center. This will open the Game Center settings menu. 3 Tap your Apple ID. You're likely to see the same Apple ID that you use for the rest of your iOS device. 4 Tap Sign out. This will sign you out of game center, but won't sign you out of other Apple ID services like iTunes or the App Store. [1] Signing out of Game Center lets you turn it off when you cancel on the Sign in screen four times. 1 Open the Notifications menu in the Settings app. Go back to the Main Settings menu and select the Notifications menu. You'll find it at the top of the Options list in the Settings app. This will show the Game Center notification settings. 3 Toggle disabling Allow Notifications. This will turn off all notifications in the Game Center app. [2] 4 Cancel the Game Center windows that four times. Even after doing all this, Game Center can still appear when certain games are loaded. This is because the games are designed to work with Game Center, and will always try to open it. Canceling the window that appears four times in a row will completely disable these notifications. [3] Add a new question How do I remove a game from my iPad? Keep tap and hold the game until apps shaking, then an X will appear in the corner, click it, and then confirm that you want to remove it. Question The game has locked my phone. I can't get out of it, what do I do? You can always remove your battery from your phone and reinsert it and turn your phone back on. Then I would recommend deleting the game from your phone. Question that deleted a game and added re due to game problems. I wanted it to be new, but picked up where I was. How can I change this? Turn off Game Center in settings. It will make the game new and not connected to your old account. Ask How do I get the game center back? You can't.
